

Democrats Turn Down Plea to Reject Candidate

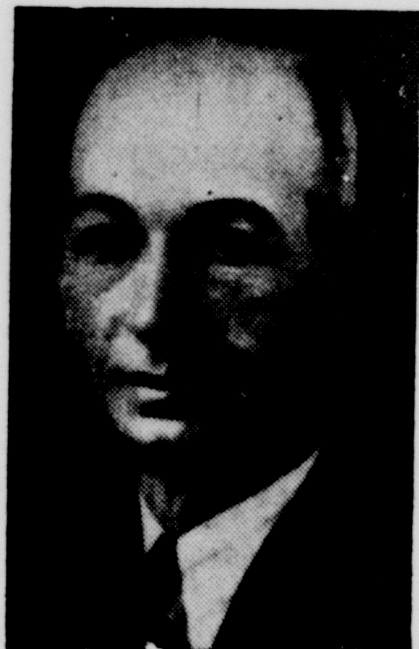

The Democratic County Executive Committee was in session Wednesday afternoon in a special session to hear additional complaints of Joe Thompson, candidate for County Attorney, against the candidacy of Gene McGlasson. Colonel E. A. Simpson of Amarillo represented Mr. Thompson before the executive committee.

Mr. McGlasson did not appear and no witnesses were called.

After an hour's discussion of the case, the committee voted unanimously to leave the name of Gene McGlasson on the primary ballot. If he is not eligible to hold the office it will be necessary to bring charges against him in the District Court, challenging his eligibility. The question in his case was whether or not he will have resided in Randall county six months previous to the date of the general election on November 7.

While in session the Executive Committee discussed the division of the office of Sheriff, Tax Assessor and Collector. Since the two candidates for this combined office had filed before there was any known cause for a division, and since no person filed as a candidate for either office on a separate basis, the committee decided that it had no authority to divide the office; or to place the name of the two offices on the primary ballots; or to recognize a write-in campaign. If there is a write-in campaign in the general election, or should any person file as an independent candidate for a divided office in the general election, it will then be up to the courts to decide as to the future status of the two offices.

Singing Class Will Be Part of City's Program

The newest of activities offered as a part of the growing recreation program is a singing class. Tom Watson, pastor of the Baptist Mission of Canyon, will teach singing at the two playgrounds one day each week. He will hold his class at the high school playground each Wednesday afternoon at 5 p. m. and at the Buffalo playground Tuesday at 4 p. m.

This new class brings the number of special classes offered the youth of Canyon to seven. They are dramatics, baton twirling, story telling, art, drawing, movies and singing, in addition to the regular playground activities.

The summer program is so arranged that each and every child attending during the week will find an activity that he or she will be interested in. The attendance each week has continued to grow; therefore, additional activities will be added throughout the summer.

Cecil Massey, the recreation director, feels that although a large number of the young people attending the playgrounds regularly many of the children of this area are not taking advantage of the summer program. He urges all parents to make it a point for their children to attend the special classes or the playground regularly.

Weldon Bright To Be Featured Musical Event

Weldon Bright, popular Amarillo organist and radio artist, will be the guest soloist featured on the concert of the College Summer Chorus Friday evening, to be presented in the auditorium of the Administration Building. Scheduled to begin at 8:15 o'clock, this concert will constitute the only public appearance of the 70-voice Summer Chorus, director Houston Bright announced.

In addition to a variety of semi-classic, standard, and Latin-American selections, guest organist Weldon Bright will present as the specialty of the evening a group of old Reformation chorales performed in the style of the 17th century organ.

The Summer Chorus will sing madrigal and motet music from the 16th century, as well as modern Russian sacred music and a popular Negro spiritual. Under direction of Houston Bright, the evening's concert will conclude with a familiar hymn of praise sung by the Summer Chorus and accompanied by the organ.

Admission to the concert will be fifty cents for adults, twenty-five cents for children. Local citizens, students, and out-of-town guests are cordially invited to attend, director Houston Bright said.

Comparison of Tax Rates of Ten Texas Towns and Cities Are Made

	Tax Rate Per $100 Assessed	Estimated Per Cent of Actual Value Used in Assessing	Effective Tax Rate Per $100	Tax on $8,000,000 Property
Canyon	$1.50	.25	.38	$30.00
Floydada	1.50	.60	.90	72.00
Hereford	1.35	.75	1.01	81.00
Lubbock	1.75	.67	1.17	93.80
Houston	1.97	.70	1.39	110.32
Clarendon	1.35	.75	1.01	81.00
Chillicothe	1.50	.60	.90	72.00
Crosbyton	1.50	.60	.90	72.00
Sunray	1.00	.60	.60	48.00
Matador	1.35	.50	.68	54.40

This table illustrates the low effective tax rate in Canyon. Of the 525 Texas Cities listed in the League of Texas Municipalities magazine, 10 others have the same effective tax rate as Canyon; 41 have lower rates; and 474 have higher effective rates, the highest being Ballinger with $1.65 per $100.00 actual value.

Should the City Commission find it necessary to double taxes in the City of Canyon, taxpayers in Canyon would still be paying less tax per $100.00 of actual value on property owned, than Floydada, Hereford, Clarendon, Lubbock, Houston, Chillicothe, or Crosbyton. The effective tax rate in Canyon is less than one-third that of Lubbock, and slightly over one-fourth of Houston's.

However, it is the belief of the Commission that sufficient revenue can be raised to meet budgeted requirements for the 1950-51 fiscal year by maintaining the assessments on 25% of the actual marketable value of the property. The problem of the City assessing agents is to appraise accurately the property rendered so that the actual value will be obtained. Efforts are being made to accomplish this at the present time.

O. H. Dixon Is Candidate State Representative

The News is authorized to announce the candidacy of O. H. Dixon of Amarillo as a candidate for the office of State Representative, 123rd District, which is composed of Randall, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Potter, Carson and Armstrong counties. His statement follows:

"I was born in Castro County in 1904; finished the grade school in Dimmitt; graduated from the Hereford high school; and attended West Texas State in Canyon.

"I have been associated with farming and ranching all of my life. I have been in the real estate business most of the time since 1932, with the exception of 10 years spent with the Texas Company in Amarillo, where I began as a laborer. I am in position to understand and appreciate the viewpoints and problems of both the laboring man and the executive in which capacities I have worked.

"At the present time I am associated with the Ralph Lowe Agency, 114 E. 3rd in Amarillo, as well as look after my farm in Randall county. I am a member of the Elk Lodge in Amarillo.

"I pledge myself to vote against any and all new tax measures until I am convinced that the taxes we now pay in are properly used.

"I pledge to fight with all the power vested in me to save State Rights for the people of Texas.

"I pledge to fight for the restitution of Texas tide lands, and collect all revenues that rightfully belong to the State of Texas.

"I pledge myself to fight socialism, communism and nationalism with all the power I can exert.

"The 123rd District has been a stepchild to Texas for a good many years, but now we represent a multi-billion dollars business and well over a hundred thousand people, and we are due some of the things that have gone to other parts of the State.

"I solicit your vote and support so I may help you protect our rights and business from the overlords in Washington," concluded Mr. Dixon.

The teen-age boys of Canyon, under the leadership of Bob Collingsworth, have organized a baseball league. The league of boys in this area will work out on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday at 6:00 p. m. at the college softball field. Thirty-five boys have signed up; however a few more are needed to round out the roster. Mr. Collingsworth, a local businessman, wishes to invite some of the rural boys from nearby to take part in the newly organized baseball club.

The schedule for the league games will be announced at a later date, and it is hoped that games with Amarillo young people will be included.

A number of the adults interested in baseball have volunteered their services in coaching the ball players. It is believed that the boys will be given valuable instructions in the technique of playing ball, in the rules, and at the same time, have the experience of playing in an organized baseball league.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Americans Back President in Demands That Reds Be Stopped

Little Korea has become the focal point of interest throughout the world.

This interest is not because of the vast resources of this little country, or its value to the United States, but due to the fact that the Reds of Russia would have a distinct military advantage in controlling this little nation. Korea is only a short jump from Japan, Alaska and Formosa. The Reds need Korea as a constant threat against the military installations on which the United States has spent billions of dollars. No one knows the picture better than the Reds. As a matter of fact, aside from the small group of military men in this country who have studied the strategic possibilities of Korea, very few Americans really appreciate the situation and necessity of holding this tiny spot.

The unanimous support of Americans to the proposal of President Truman to defend Korea against the Reds indicates the growing fear on the part of our citizens that a definite stand must be taken against the Reds. The declaration of President Truman that the Reds must withdraw indicates the willingness of this nation to turn the cold war into a hot war if the Reds do not have sense enough to withdraw. The line has been drawn and the Reds told that they can no longer advance without risking a shooting war.

There has been a growing fear that the administration waited too long to make its declaration. The Reds have resulted us in Berlin and have done everything within their power to make America and our allies out as a bunch of chumps who were vulnerable for any sort of threats. This has been done to strengthen the hand of the Reds at home.

While no one knows what the Kremlin's mind really is, it is a safe guess to suppose that the present plan was well thought out, with the hope that the Reds could again bluff the Allies into the Reds' way of thinking. They made their bluff in Berlin, until the airlift was devised.

Russia was trusted during World War II and traded us out of our shirts. We agreed to give Russia everything that they wanted, even a circle around Berlin in order to keep us out of that unfortunate city. The Reds secured not only territory, but vast stores of war materials because of our unfortunate "trades" in which we gave the lands of other folks, as well as our own war materials.

Yes, and the sad part was that as soon as the war was over, every American soldier in uniform, and every friend and relative of every man in uniform, demanded that the soldiers be brought home and discharged from service. We did not realize at that time that we had become a world power and that we must assume world obligations.

Since this has been impressed so forcefully upon us twice in a period of thirty years, perhaps we shall have sense enough to realize in the future the necessity of keeping under arms a sufficient force for use in any part of the world on short notice. Furthermore, the nation will not feel secure without an adequate stockpile of atom bombs which may be used upon any aggressor in any part of the world.

During the past months we have heard repeated claims from the administration, first that war is inevitable; and next that there was no danger of war. We have been told that the situation was impossible, and next that it was well in hand. Even those within the administration and the President's cabinet have disagreed in our foreign policy, and what should be done. The administration has played up unimportant issues on the domestic front, seemingly unaware of the dangers confronting us abroad. No wonder that the Republicans are demanding the resignation of Dean Acheson and others who have added so much to the prevailing confusion.

As the matter stands, Americans do not want war, will do everything honorable to avoid war, but all agree that we can no longer endure the spread of the conquering Reds, and demand that they be checked, even at the risk of war.

Slick Scheme Uncovered to Pass Unequal Redistricting

Have you noticed how the population of East Texas counties have uniformly declined?

There is a story behind this story: You will recall that the people of Texas adopted a constitutional amendment by which provision is made that should the legislature fail to redistrict the state following each federal census that a commission shall do the job.

The story comes to us that the boys from East Texas will pull a fast one in January. They have a bill written which will slightly redistrict the state, but will not give the growing counties any way nearly as much representation in the legislature as the declining East Texas counties. They figure that the next session of the legislature will have so many freshmen members that they can pull a fast one and put over this unequal redistricting bill. Should they succeed, then Texas could not be redistricted for another ten years.

West Texas Senators and Representatives will have to be on their toes to block this unfair bill and trust to the state commission for relief. Maybe the politically minded commission would do a little better, but at any rate West Texas will have the votes, and that counts with the boys who look for results.

Smaller Counties Collecting More Money From Candidates

The Newsman has been checking surrounding counties as to the expense of holding primary elections.

With a population of 13,732, Randall county has jumped into the big league so far as possible votes are concerned. Maybe the voters of Randall county will take advantage of their opportunities and their obligations, and then again they may shirk this obligation of citizenship.

At any rate, we note that counties with less populations than Randall have assessed their candidates more money for holding the primary elections. Maybe Randall county candidates are getting off too cheaply, and the Democratic County Executive Committee will find itself devoid of funds by the time the second primary comes around.

The candidates who put up the money believe that they were assessed plenty, but the law is the law and there is nothing that the county committee can do except collect enough fees to pay the primary election bills.

So that's that.

Don't forget to trade in Canyon whenever possible. This policy will promote your prosperity, as well as the prosperity of other citizens.

Caravans Pay By Cementing the Interest of Local People

As we look at the groups of tired boosters who have visited Canyon during the past few weeks, we wonder as to the amount of good these trips really do. So far as the expense is concerned, we know that an advertisement in The Canyon News would do more good and draw more people to these events than the booster trips accomplish.

There is another side to this problem. Several years ago Canyon made several such trips in the interest of the 50th Anniversary of the town and county. The greatest amount of good accomplished by these trips was the fact that friendships were cemented, and the people of Canyon made to realize that they lived in an up and coming town and county.

It is time that we organized another booster trip for the purpose of advertising Canyon, West Texas State, the Museum, Buffalo Lake and Palo Duro State Park. We have a lot of good attractions to advertise—not just one rodeo, or one special event.

Counting Noses Is a Serious and Highly Necessary Job

The frantic effort is still going on throughout the Southwest to increase the population of towns and cities.

Lubbock started out by offering $1.00 each for any person who was missed in the census count. Amarillo then came out with the safe proposal. The Canyon News published the standard census form which should be sent in by any person or persons who was missed in the census count.

While most folks in Randall county and Canyon are satisfied with the count, let it be remembered that the count is not closed until published in Washington. If there are any persons in Randall county who have been missed, PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE report to The Canyon News AT ONCE. Your names will be forwarded to Washington with the hope that you will be credited to our population count. Let's act today.

Fast Presses Do not Produce Good Print of Pictures

We are often asked why pictures used in The Canyon News are so much clearer than the pictures used in the daily papers. Since others have asked the question, you might be interested. Here is the answer:

The Canyon News prints from a sheet of paper 32x44 inches, while the daily prints from a roll of paper.

The speed of our press is much slower, and therefore we use a much heavier ink than is used by the daily paper. That makes a vast difference in the print. However, the greatest reason is that we can use a finer screen of cut, 85 screen, as compared with a 60 screen cut which is required by the daily. We can use up to a 100 screen cut, which would only make a black blot in the daily paper.

All of these facts added together makes it possible for your country weekly to produce a superior print than obtainable by any daily.

We have threatened several times to buy a rotary press in order to save time. We are always advised by the daily publishers not to sacrifice our splendid print for the saving made possible by speed.

Hope we have made the situation clear!

Alcoholism—Dreaded Disease of Thousands of Men, Women

We heard a most interesting talk on alcoholism by a Dallas cafe man recently when he declared that alcoholism was a terrible disease. Too often people fail to recognize the fact that alcoholics are doing their best to avoid drunkenness, but simply are weakened by a disease which they cannot control of their own strength.

While the speaker did not profess to be a great churchman, yet he pointed out the fact that conquest of alcoholism requires, in most cases, a super being, who will take charge and direct the affairs of the afflicted one. He has been working for years in Alcoholic Anonymous, a great organization of men and women who know the curse of drink and what it does for the human race.

Haskew Speaks At Grad Meeting

The second meeting of the graduate club during the summer session was held Tuesday evening, June 27, in Buffalo Stadium. D. V. Biggers, president, presided during the business session. A fellowship fund for graduates was discussed but action was delayed until the next meeting, Tuesday, July 11.

Dr. James L. Russell, dean of the graduate school, introduced Dr. L. D. Haskew, dean of the College of Education of Texas University. Dr. Haskew, who is group leader for this week's administrative conferences which are being held at the Canyon high school, spoke on the essential differences between graduate study and under-graduate study in college. He stated that the true graduate fills the role of questing, that he has the determination to get what he wants, that he has a sincere desire to get usable ideas, and that he reveals an inventiveness in his thinking.

President Biggers announced that Mrs. Julia Van Bebbler will give a dramatic reading of Alice Miller's "White Cliffs of Dover" at the next meeting, scheduled for July 11.

HURRICANE ALERTS

Twenty-seven Atlantic and Gulf coast cities have been linked by the Weather Bureau by a special teletype hook up for alerts on hurricanes. On the bureau's calendar, June 18, of each year marks the beginning of the storm season, although the big blows seldom come before July or August. The teletype hookup is used for assembling information on storms and passing it along. Last year, hurricanes took four lives and caused property damage estimated at $58,750 in continental United States.

TAX FILES OPEN

President Truman has issued an executive order giving the special Senate Committee investigating crime access to "any income, excess-profits, capital stock, estate and gift tax returns for any period to and including 1949." Income tax records are expected to be especially useful in view of the fact that many powerful gamblers and underworld characters have been meticulously reporting their incomes to the Federal Government and paying taxes on it since the late Al Capone, Chicago gangster, and others were sent to jail for Federal tax evasions after escaping prosecution for other crimes.

No man is wholly free. He is slave to wealth, or to fortune, or the laws or the people restrain him from acting according to his will alone.—Euripides.

Wedding Plans Are Revealed at Home Tea

The wedding date of Jean McManigal of Happy and H. L. Rowell, Jr. of Tulia was revealed Thursday at a tea given by her mother, Mrs. Hobart McManigal. As the guests arrived, Miss Betty McCarley secured names for the guest book.

Miss Lillian Ann Doughty presented each guest with a small card inscribed "Jean and H. L. August 13." Two small wedding bells were attached to the card with white cation ribbon.

The tea table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a crystal bowl of sweet peas and snapdragons flanked by white tapers in crystal holders. This arrangement formed a background for a tiny bride and groom standing beneath a white wedding veil.

Mrs. Ernest White of Happy and Mrs. Billie McClure of Plainview, aunt of the honoree, presided at the serving table. Refreshments of punch, individual white cakes topped with wedding bells, and bell-shaped tea sandwiches carried out the wedding bell motif.

Background music was played throughout the program, a reading "The bride" given by Kay White and a legend "The Ringing of the Wedding Bells" by Mrs. A. L. Shaw.

City Conveniences Brought to Farms In Past 10 Years

NEW YORK — Roadside hamburger stands are about the only log cabins left in America's farm areas — thanks to home-building progress of the past 10 years.

In 1940 the farm and small town homes were far behind the city house in comfort and convenience. Today they differ in little but location, says a Tile Council of America report on home-building trends.

If farm and small town dwelling improvement in the next decade equals that of the last, modern features such as radiant heating, clay tile bathrooms, and automatic temperature control may be commonplace on the farm, according to the council. The 1940-50 decade, during which farmers spend $7,000,000,000 on construction, was the greatest era of farm building and improvement in the nation's history.

In the past 10 years about 850,000 new rural homes were built, about 500,000 got major repairs, and 400,000 old farm houses were eliminated. The number of farms wired for electricity was doubled, as was the number with private bath and flush toilet. Now seven out of every ten of these dwellings have electricity, and nearly three out of 10 have private baths and flush toilets.

Housewives are the beneficiaries of these most recent home improvements. Conveniences such as electric dishwashers, kitchen walls of easy-to-clean materials and gas ranges are making life easier for the rural housekeeper.

Delaware Judge Rules Out Witchcraft Trial

WILMINGTON—It is hard to believe, but in the year 1950 a woman was almost tried for witchcraft.

Mrs. Helen Evans, 23, was charged with witchcraft after she allegedly gave a young woman a charm to sleep on after telling her that her handwriting indicated she was under a curse.

The judge, however, ruled that the young mother would not stand trial for witchcraft, but for telling fortunes.

The judge said: "It is unbelievable that a charge of practicing witchcraft could be brought in the enlightened state of Delaware."

Trussed Up Wife Changes Mind About Getting Divorce

SEATTLE—Robert Johnson, a traffic investigator for Boeing Airplane Company, was determined his wife was not going to get a divorce. He was so determined, he tied her up.

It happened like this:

They had not been getting along too well, so he trussed her up and tossed her into the family automobile, vowing he would take her back to Osakia, Minn., their former home, and end the divorce nonsense. He took along their 18 month old son.

On the way they had an accident. Mrs. Johnson was taken to a hospital, not badly hurt. Johnson was taken to jail, where he was held for reckless driving.

At the hospital her first questions were about her uninjured son and husband. Then she offered to bail him out.

"Might even move back to Minnesota with him, too," she added.

Radioactive Metals Used In Commercial Research

BRECKSVILLE—Peacetime use of radioactive metals in commercial research, first started here, may bring the first of many contributions to mankind that are expected from this death-dealing wartime discovery.

Under licensing just granted by the atomic energy commission, scientists at the B. F. Goodrich research center are using a four-inch pencil-like rod of uranium metal to "see" particles so small that a million of them laid end to end would cover an inch.

Dr. Howard E. Fritz, director of research, said the study is being directed toward the compounding of tougher, longer-wearing rubber.

"Once we know all we can about the makeup of the rubber—and being able to see these minute particles is a big step in that direction—we shall be able to improve the quality of the product."

The original uranium "pencil" should last from three to five years, he says.

'Sinners' Donate $43 To Pay Preacher's Fine

CAMPBELLSVILLE—Tom Meredith, who calls himself the "highway and byway evangelist" was arrested and jailed for violation of the city's anti-loud-speaker ordinance. He was later fined $10 and cost—a total of $21.50.

He was also fined $10 and cost on a second warrant charging breach of peace.

After he was fined, he told Judge Robert Hord he would ask "the sinners to pay" his fines. He was permitted to go outside the court. From the crowd that had gathered he collected $43 to pay the fines and costs.

British Diver Says Spanish Galleon Has Been Found

TOBERMORY, SCOTLAND—The search for a sixteenth century Spanish treasure galleon, reported carrying about $68,000,000 in gold ducats when sunk, has been found according to some reports.

The British navy has been searching for the ship for weeks. They recently came up with two silver medallions from the mark of Tobermory bay where the search was conducted. The navy, however, called off the operation.

The Duke of Argyll owns the galleon, if there is one, and the treasure. The navy operation was for practice. Any other move to recover the gold is up to the duke.

According to old stories, the galleon Duque Florencia of the Spanish Armada, was sunk in 1588 while carrying gold to pay Spanish fighters attempting a conquest of Britain. A decree of King Charles I gave the wreck to the Dukes of Argyll.

Small boys all over Scotland have thrilled to the adventure. They have read every word printed about the search.

If any gold is found the duke will have to turn it over to the British treasury for modern pounds sterling and a treasury spokesman commented:

"Thirty million gold ducats would make a very useful contribution indeed to the nation's gold reserves."

Lieut. Comdr. Reay Parkinson, boss of the treasure hunt, is confident that the galleon has been found.

Traitor Gives Eyes To Blind Parisian

PARIS—Maurice Bey, was condemned and executed for being a member of the French gestapo organization. As one of his last gestures he offered his eyes to science.

At dawn on the day of execution physicians were at hand to remove the corneas. Upon completion of the execution they were removed and placed in an eye bank at the hospital.

The following day the corneas were transplanted to the eyes of a sightless Parisian. Bey was executed by a firing squad.

Many Captives in Russian Labor Camps, Returnees Say

BEREA—German prisoners returned from Russia—191 of them—laughed with bitterness when informed that the Soviet reports all but 13,000 of them have been returned to their homes.

"Why, there are tens and tens of thousands still there. We just left them, just in the camps we came from," one said.

"Why, the Russian officers themselves told us in Brest-Litovsk two weeks ago that they expected another 150,000 to go through that one transient camp," said another.

Each of the tattered, vermin infested men on the train had a personal story of a Russian slave camp still filled with prisoners.

One man said, "I saw them working in a coal mine, standing in water up to the waist. They are all sick from it."

Albert Rether, 26, said: "We were always hungry. They gave us enough to live on, but not little enough to die."

Another said: "Hunger is what most men died of. Hunger and typhus. Nobody will ever know how many. At Bresk-Litovsk, from 1945 until now, they buried more than 3,000."

Rolling Pin Rule Is Enthroned in Ozark Town

STELLA—The name Stella is a woman's name, so the women of Stella—the town—took over after a recent election and are running the community.

It all began when the ladies had their names placed on the ballot as a joke. The men in the little community of 300 thought it would be a better joke to give them a vote or two.

The result—Stella has a woman mayor and all-woman city council. The mayor is a spinster, Norma Westcott. She opened the first meeting of the council using a rolling pin instead of a gavel.

Said the mayor: "We women believe the town has been needing new blood for a long time. The men have run the women as long as we've had a town. Now it's their turn to jump when we say 'frog'."

The first major problem that faced the new administration was the appointment of a dog catcher—a woman in an administrative capacity and a man as her assistant to do the work.

Ungrateful Owl Nips Nurse And Hand That Fed Her

TENAFLY—Hildegard, an owl, has nipped the hand that feeds her. Hildegard was struck by an automobile and injured. Mrs. Herbert E. Carnes, president of the New Jersey Audubon society, nursed the owl back to health.

Recently, while showing Hildegard to visitors and after feeding the owl ice cream from a spoon, the bird attacked Mrs. Carnes. It required hospital treatment to close the wounds.

Hildegard has been banished from the sanctuary.

Robert W. Calvert Here in Campaign For Supreme Court

Robert W. Calvert was here Friday in his campaign for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas.

Atomic Power and GOD...

On the tip of most every tongue, 'civilization-wide,' the dreaded story of the ATOMIC BOMB is being whispered. Hardships, infirmities, agonies and inconceivable distress, only partially paint the horrible scene which must follow every Atomic Eruption. O Lord, give us strong men of courage, and men who fear God... men imbued with certain principles of justice and brotherly love, to guide us in these History-making days.

The age of the harnessing of God's minute atom has long since been a reality. Skilled scientists have celebrated the occasion for years. Man now has the achievement and must control its use. It is time for the genuine love of God to reign in the hearts of men if civilization is to survive.

When it becomes practical for the ingenuity of man, as is now the case, to concoct instruments of inconceivable power that can rip the earth into canyons, lift and wreck 'skyscrapers' more easily than a strong man can break a straw, and with the heat of Hell burn to dust every object near the point of its eruption... then, brother, it's time for all mankind to 'GET ON SPEAKING TERMS WITH GOD.'

The whole world seems to be in constant fear of this terrific weapon. Nations seem to be at 'loggerhead'... they do not trust each other. Their acts and sayings are questioned; their conclusions censored. They are in a race to avoid the calamity of the immortal phrase, "TOO FEW AND TOO LATE."

Christians must meet the challenge of the Atomic Age. The doctrine of BROTHERLY LOVE must prevail. This is an era when giants in the field of business, and fabulously rich in the material wealth of the world, are scattering their shekels in the interest of religion. The church must not be denied. Help keep her good work going by attending your church regularly. Help her mold men to control the Atom.

BURROW LUMBER COMPANY

Construction To Start In July; Ready For Occupancy In 1951

Work will start within a few days on the new library building to be erected immediately southwest of the Administration building. Neill Singleton Construction Company of Amarillo was awarded the contract for the $334,241 two-story brick and stone building by the Board of Regents during a meeting last week-end in Dallas.

Remington-Rand Company was awarded the equipment contract totalling $54,481.

The library is designed to be a companion building for the Science building which it will face. The same type stone, brick, and architecture is used. Macon O. Carder, Amarillo, is architect of both buildings.

For the convenience of librarians who get books for students, an elevator is being installed, running from the basement floor to the second floor. In the basement will be a stack room with two tiers of stacks, a work room for the storage and repairing of books, four large rooms to be used by the audio-visual education department for the showing and teaching of films. Boiler room, storage rooms and offices will take the remaining basement space.

The first floor can be entered through two doors, one on the east and the main entrance, and one on the north. A long hallway will take up the center space. Card files will be built into the hall walls. Two more tiers of the stack room will take a major space of the south end of the building. The north end will be occupied by the main reading room. The ladies and faculty ladies lounges will also be on the first floor. Remaining space will be used for offices, a loading dock, cataloging rooms, and conference rooms.

On the second floor will be an exhibit room for rare books and documents, a Texas Room for books written about Texas, documents of office, current periodical room, reserve room, and men's lounges. Two of the most outstanding rooms to be included are the typing room where students may rent typewriters and type assignments, manuscripts and such other writings, and a record playing room. This room will have booths to be used by students to play both educational and popular records.

Outside, the building will look much like the Science building with the same type front opening, stone and brick work, and entrance design. The loading dock and elevator are conveniently located so that when a shipment of books arrive, they can be loaded into the elevator and taken directly to either the basement or second floor.

When the library is completed, it will be the third in a series of additions to rapidly expanding West Texas State College. Other buildings are the Chapel to be finished within 30 days, and the Gym to be completed in the fall in time for the first basketball game.

Danger Ahead of Carelessness in Flammable Fluid

A can or a bottle of paint or cleaning fluid looks innocuous. And so it is—if it is properly used. Improperly used, it may become one of the most lethal weapons.

When a container of liquid is marked "Flammable" or "Keep Away From Flame" it means that the contents give off vapors at ordinary room temperature. These vapors usually cannot be seen but as they flow or float away from the surface they mix with the air and form a mixture that may burn or explode if it comes in contact with any spark or flame. Whenever flammable paints or cleaning solutions are used it is essential that good ventilation be provided to carry away the vapors, and that all flames, sparks and hot surfaces are kept well away from the work.

Failure to follow such safety rules may result in tragedy. As an example, in one case four workmen were applying special paint to the interior of an open-top steel tank. When one of the men lighted a cigarette the tank filled with flames. They lasted only a minute but killed three of the workers and severely burned the fourth.

In still another case a young couple used gasoline to clean a waxed floor. The vapors became ignited. The young couple went to the hospital with severe burns, their baby was killed, and the house was destroyed.

These liquids, in other words, are a major fire and explosion hazard. If possible, paints and cleaners which do not present a fire hazard should be used. When this is not possible, strict precautions should always be taken.

Food Poisoning Should Be Thing of Past Says Cox

Food poisoning and the spread of food-borne diseases can be "things of the past," State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox asserted here today. "People need only remember three things to bring about the end of the food poisoning disease classification," Dr. Cox declared. "Buy food from safe sources, prepare it in a sanitary fashion, and serve and store it correctly."

He said state laws covered the sale of contaminated food to the housewife, but "only the homemaker can see that food is properly stored and cleanly prepared for serving to the family."

There is a difference between food infection and food intoxication, he pointed out.

Food infection comes from eating or drinking a product contaminated by a germ. Dysentery, typhoid fever, para-typhoid fever and tuberculosis are examples. Animal parasites can also gain entry to the body in this way. That, the doctor said, is how people get trichinosis and tape worm.

The growth and multiplication of certain toxin formed bacteria in unrefrigerated foods brings on food intoxication, according to the explanation. That is the source of staphylococcus infection and the deadly botulism. Some kinds of mushrooms and certain shellfish are also poisonous.

Some poisonous substances may be accidentally introduced into food, Dr. Cox said. "For instance, rodent and insect poisons, spray residues on fruit and vegetables, and poisons from metal containers."

To point up the deadliness of some food poisons, he related the story of the housewife who suspected some home-canned beans she had just opened were tainted.

"She barely tasted one of them, but it killed her in a matter of hours. Such instances are rare but do occur."

J. E. McDonald on Short Visit Here Saturday Morning

J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Agriculture of Texas, was in Canyon Saturday morning between buses. He was on his way to Friona where he talked at a farm meeting.

McDonald and the Newsman served together in the House of Representatives. He has been an outspoken critic of the nation's administration on the farm program and has voted against the Democratic nominees for President since the first election of Roosevelt. An attempt was made by the State Democratic Executive Committee to keep his name off the Democratic ballots because of his fight against the national Democratic ticket, but he won his case in the courts.

"I have never made a campaign for re-election as Commissioner of Agriculture and am confident of re-election on July 22," stated Mr. McDonald.

A pig once changed the history of Texas.

Back in the days when Texas was a republic (after winning its independence from Mexico), other nations sent ambassadors, or ministers as they were called, to Austin. France sent M. De Saligny as its diplomatic representative.

De Saligny owned horses which he fed corn. A pig belonging to an innkeeper named Bullock got in and ate some of the corn and so the Frenchman's servant killed the pig.

This made Mr. Bullock mad and he horse-whipped the servant.

And this made M. De Saligny mad so he filed charges against Bullock—but the innkeeper was freed, so M. De Saligny was so angry he resigned as minister of Texas.

Now the young Republic of Texas was having financial troubles and was trying to get a loan of several million dollars. France was about to let Texas have the money but M. De Saligny was mad and he made such an unfavorable report that Texas didn't get the loan, which would have put the Republic in good shape and would have helped to develop the country.

So Texas applied for admission to the United States and joined the Union.

Texas might have kept on being a republic all of its own and might still be a separate nation if it had not been for that pig.

A scrapbook selection, entitled "Dad."

He may wear last year's straw hat, his finger-nails may need manicuring, his vest may hang loose and his pants may bag at the knees. His face may show signs of a second day's growth and the dinner pail may be full of dents. But don't call him the "old man"—he's your father. For years and years, he has been rustling around to get things together. Never once has he failed to do the right thing by you. He thinks you are the greatest boy on earth, bar none, even though you plaster your hair back, wear smart clothes and fail to bring home a cent.

He is the man who won the love and life partnership of the greatest woman on earth—your mother. He is "some" man and not the "old man." If you win as good a wife as he did, you will have to go some, boy.

Two-Way Street In International Trade Necessary

We cannot rehabilitate Europe, the East, or any other section of the world by simply pouring out dollars. True rehabilitation can be attained only by helping to place the needy nations on a sound and productive economic basis. That was the idea of General Marshall when, as Secretary of State, he made his famous speech at Harvard in which the basis of his plan was first laid down.

One of the major economic problems of the world is that our exports now far exceed our imports. Under these conditions, the gold and dollar credits of the nations flow inexorably toward our shores. And soon—as happened in England—the money just runs out, and new crises inevitably follow.

International trade is a two-way street. If we are to sell abroad, without impoverishing our customers, we must buy from abroad. Something resembling an even balance of trade must be reached. This is, as everyone knows, an exceedingly difficult problem. The adjustments will be many and hard. But, in the long pull, it is the only salvation for those nations which look to us for leadership and assistance—even as it is the only way to cement the military alliance of the Western world. A country which is economically hungry cannot be strong militarily.

The Marshall Plan, and the related policies, will succeed or fail as we succeed or fail in offering a market for the products and resources of other nations even as they offer a market for ours. We will not long be able to sell if we do not buy. And, from the selfish point of view, a breakdown in international trade would have the most serious adverse effect on our own employment and production, and our economy as a whole.

Coin Hunters Turning Pleasure Into Profit

10,000 numbered goldline coins have been distributed in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park, which are being sought by Treasure Hunters. These persons are turning their pleasure into profit when they find coins, which bring valuable prizes. Attendance at the Palo Duro State Park is the largest in the history of this 15,500 acre playground of Northwest Texas.

Commies Train Spies to Work Over Americans

The American Communists, who have gone underground with a vengeance, are attempting to weaken the nation through propaganda, and are training spies whose job is to bore inside the Government and to steal our top military secrets—particularly those concerning atomic weapons, jet planes, and plans for the national defense in event of war. That, in essence, is what FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover recently told a Senate committee.

Mr. Hoover is under no illusions as to Communist purposes. He said, "The Communist Party is not a bona fide political party. It is a highly organized, militant, and disciplined conspiratorial group following the whims and dictates of international Communism—The party is a group dedicated to the overthrow of our Government."

Just how large is this party whose loyalty belongs to a foreign power? According to Mr. Hoover, there are 54,174 actual Communist Party members within the U. S. at the present time, most of whom are in the concentrated centers of population. New York State alone contains about half of them. It is likely that for every party member, there are 10 sympathizers who are ready, willing and able to do the party's work. So, he said, "There is a potential fifth column of 540,000 people dedicated to this philosophy."

Since the trial and conviction of the 11 members of the party's Executive Board, major organizational changes have been effected. Mr. Hoover continued. The trend has been toward decentralization. In order to eliminate the dangers that arise when large numbers congregate, the number of Communist Party clubs has been almost tripled. No membership cards were issued last year, and the maintenance of membership records has been discontinued. A courier system has been established to protect confidential communications. Secret printing plants have been set up. Leaders are being selected for the underground. A thorough and elaborate system has been devised for making certain that each member is loyal to Communism and will remain so.

According to Mr. Hoover, the party has "endeavored to exploit youths, veterans, civil rights, foreign nationality, the press, radio, television, the motion-picture industry, educational, political, women, and labor groups—Forty-eight per cent of the membership of the Communist Party is in the basic industries vital to our security, such as steel, heavy machinery, mining, communications, transportation, the electrical industry and the maritime industry—The Communists have developed one of the greatest propaganda machines that I think modern civilization has ever known."

It is clear that Mr. Hoover regards the Communists and fellow-travelers as an exceedingly grave menace to our security. And no man is in a better position to know.

News In Canyon 25 Years Ago

(Taken from the files of the

Boxing Coach Undergoes Emergency Appendectomy

John Lee, boxing instructor and trainer at West Texas State last year, underwent an emergency appendectomy Monday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, Wellington.

Lee, present manager of Marian Airpark Pool in Wellington and a member of the high school coaching staff, became ill Sunday but it was not until Monday evening that his case was diagnosed as appendicitis.

He is reported in a satisfactory condition.

CARVING HIS OWN GOOSE

Herman Lindsay-Fitzpatrick was a great landowner in Ireland in the days before that fair land became independent of England. The country was in a great ferment of political excitement. To this great landlord there came one night a tenant, asking a favor.

"Shure, it's this way, Mr. Fitzpatrick," the man explained, "they're asking me to make a speech at a political meeting and I be thinkin' maybe your honor would help me."

"Of course I will," the great landlord replied, "if you will tell me what you want to speak about."

The tenant hesitated and then blurted out: "That's a delicate question, your honor. The subject we are discussing is—dividing up your honor's land!"

U. S. JOBS

Despite cuts in various departments, Government employment increased 1417 in April and March, according to the Byrd Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Expenditures. The Post Office cut 3,165 persons off its rolls in March and April and the Veterans Administration lopped another 3,248 from its payroll. However, increases were accounted by the Mutual Defense Assistance Agency and the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Erdman, Gipson, Haley To Speak At Panhandle Writer's Round-up

Among the many noted speakers to appear at the first Writer's Round-up sponsored by the Panhandle Pen Women and to be held at West Texas State July 23-29, will be Loula Grace Erdman, a member of the West Texas State faculty and instructor in the English department. Others to be speakers and critics are Fred Gipson, J. Evetts Haley, Sallie Fletcher Hill, Elvon Howe, Essie Forrester O'Brien, Lewis Nordyke, Arthur Sampley and Caroline Deason Timmons.

Assistant professor of English at West Texas State, Miss Erdman is also director of the conference. During the regular school session she teaches creative writing classes and workshops on the campus and at Amarillo Center.

Miss Erdman's publications are in the field of fiction. She has had published such novels as "The Separate Star," "Fair Is The Morning," "The Years of the Locust," "The Lonely Passage," and another novel will be published in September. "The Edge of Time." She has also written short stories which appeared in Red Book, Reader's Digest, American Girl, Woman's Day, Christian Herald, and Progressive Farmer.

Fred Gipson is a professional writer and an ex-newspaper man who now lives in Mason, Texas. He worked on the Corpus Christi Caller and the San Angelo Standard-Times as a newspaperman. The past ten years he has been doing free lance writing, his stories having appeared in Collier's, Progressive Farmer, Southwest Review, Reader's Digest, Pageant and Holiday. His most popular novel is "Hound Dog Man" which was chosen as a Book-of-the-Month selection.

J. Evetts Haley is well-known in the Panhandle territory for his writings of the area. Other than his many magazine articles he has also written "History of the XII Ranch," "Ben Melton a Good Man With a Gun," "Charles Goodnight, Cowman and Plainsman," and many others. Entertainment for the nights to be spent here by those attending the conference has been planned with a picnic and coon hunt in Palo Duro Canyons being one of the star events.

HARD WORK

"Have you ever done a lick of work?" demanded the angry housewife of the tramp.

"Lady," he retorted, "if you think asking dames like you for a bite to eat ain't work you's don't know what work is."

THE MEANING

"Mother, what is a trousseau?" inquired a six year old of her mother. The mother looked across the room at her husband who was hiding behind a paper, and said:

"A trousseau is the clothes the bride wears for six or seven years after she is married."

THE TRUTH SO HELP ME!

Of all the departments of lying, few are more darkly fascinating than that alluring inventive division known as "Truth-Telling, Technically Speaking."

As an example take the story about an enterprising worker in a Connecticut ammunition factory. This jolly fellow gained unlimited credit from a German saloon keeper across the street from the plant by telling him:

"Oh, yes, didn't you know we were sending shells to Germany?" only to amend the statement when we came into the conflict by saying: "Well, we didn't exactly send them direct—we sold them to England and France, and they shot them over."

If you're smart, you can always tell a liar; but if he is adroit you can't tell him much.

ONCE WAS ENOUGH

Mrs. Briggs: "Did you catch your husband flirting?"

Mrs. Jiggs: "Yes, just once."

Mrs. Briggs: "What did you do to him?"

Mrs. Jiggs: "Married him."

Emmett Smith Appointed Head of State Teacher Education Committee

EMMETT SMITH

Emmett D. Smith, associate professor of education, has been appointed head of a sub-committee to study teacher education in Texas. This committee is part of a larger one headed by John Mosley, a Texan who has been in Washington, D. C. for the past several years. Created by the recent Texas legislature, the committee is set up to study the status of higher education in Texas.

Only a group to act as a fact finding board, it was not created to propose any legislation of any sort. Rather, it was formed to assimilate data to present the legislature, should the question of higher education come up in the next meeting of the legislature next January. The committee is made up of other members of college and university faculties in Texas.

An interim group, 17 members of legislature head the smaller committees. This group acts between sessions of legislature to collect material on questions most likely to appear at following meetings.

Smith will be released from his duties the first of July, and will return to the West Texas State faculty next fall. In his absence, Dr. Roberts will act as college representative in the one-week courses being offered this summer. These courses are conducted by instructors from other locations all over the United States.

During the past two years, Smith has been executive secretary of the Texas Council on Teacher Education. This is a voluntary group and is not connected in any way with the legislature. However, many of the same questions will be discussed in the legislative group. Some of these are certification of teachers, elementary education, and special services for schools throughout the state.

An ex-student of West Texas State, Smith returned to WT in his teaching capacity last fall. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from WT and his Master of Arts degree from Texas Technological College, Lubbock. Originally from Groom, he spent the year preceding his year of teaching at WT in Austin working on his doctorate at the University of Texas. While there he served his first term as secretary to the Texas Council of Teacher Education.

Smith was public school principal and superintendent at White Deer for many years. Year before last, he also served as a special representative to WT to the workshop at the State Department of Education.

El Paso Group Labor Leaders After Tax Money

Texas mayors, county judges and school board members were alerted today to the threat of their "home rule" powers being turned over to labor groups and the diversion of more than $30,000,000 of public tax monies from the State Highway Department building program.

General Ike Ashburn, executive director of the Texas Good Roads Association, in a statement released from the Association's headquarters in Austin compared the threat to Texas in the El Paso Wage Rate Case to be on a parity with the Tideland Case.

The Texas Supreme Court is scheduled early in July to receive the El Paso Wage Rate Case. The issue is whether organizations, like the American Federation of Labor in the El Paso case, will dictate the policy of wage contracts for the state highway department or whether that department will do so.

Many years ago, General Ashburn cited, the state legislature delegated to the highway department, with its many specialists and engineers, the right and responsibility to determine the prevailing wage rate in the areas where state highway contracts are to be let. Each succeeding legislature has left this right inviolate. The responsibility to determine the prevailing rates by this same law was placed upon various agencies who are responsible for the administration of many state, city and county functions.

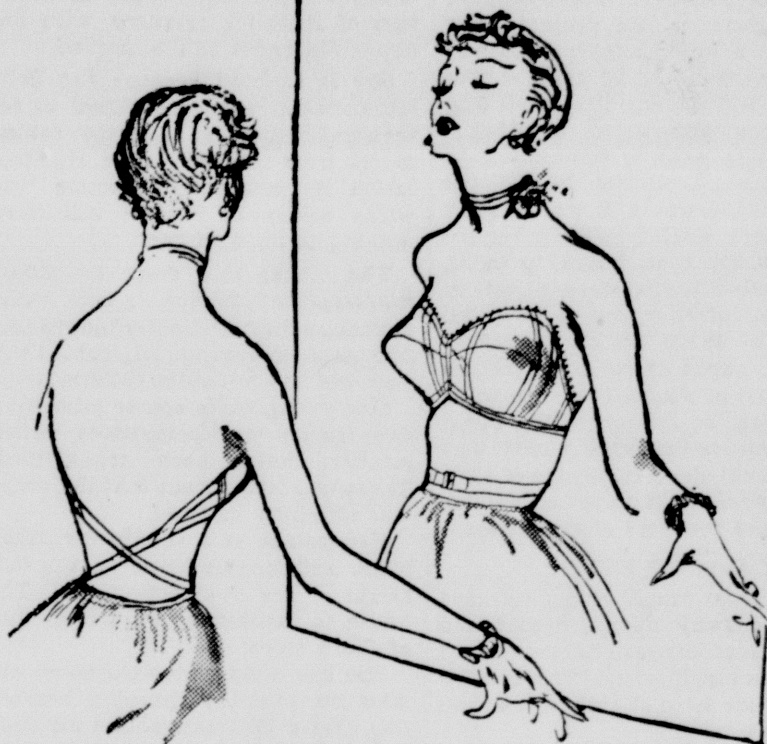

"If the thinking of the labor group in El Paso is correct," Gen Ashburn's statement said, "it will mean that the legislature all these years has been in error and that the state highway department and the county judges and commissioners of Texas are no longer capable of determining what the proper wage scale is in Texas counties. It will mean that some other group of business agents like the union labor group at El Paso will be allocated this authority and the legislature, the state highway department, the county judges and the county commissioners in Texas will be by-passed."

The Good Roads executive warned that if "the present group or any other group get their foot in the door and win in this case, we can expect to see a breakdown of our present home rule of municipal, county and school board units. We don't believe our Texas mayors, county judges, commissioners and school boards want, or need, any

$80 Million Tunnel Opened To Motorists

NEW YORK—After 10 years—seven years of actual construction work—the Brooklyn-Battery tunnel opened to motorists last month.

Now that it is over, Ralph Smillie, chief engineer of the project, says he wants a long, long rest. It was a big job, requiring 30 general contractors and several hundred subcontractors and more headaches than Smillie likes to remember.

Although the tunnel is not the largest in the world, it was one big job. In fact, 9,117 feet of it, requiring 13,050,000 man hours to build, 813,000 cubic yards of excavation, 93,600 tons of cast iron to keep the rock and river out, 883,391 bolts, 263,700 cubic yards of concrete, 799,000 square feet of clay tiles on the walls and ceiling, or enough to tile about 6,500 home bathrooms; 12,932 tons of structural steel, 6,756 tons of reinforcing steel, 1,871 miles of electric wiring, and the lives of eight men.

Cost $80 Million

The biggest tunnel in the world is the Queensway tunnel under the Mersey river between Liverpool and Birkenhead in England. The Queensway has one bore slightly more than two miles long.

The new link under the East river was expected to cost about $80 million when the ground was broken by President Roosevelt in 1940. When finished it had cost $80 million.

The tunnel is actually two tubes, running east and west, 15 feet apart. At the deepest point they are 115 feet below the surface of the East river.

Each tube is a two-lane highway and together they are expected to handle 2,800 cars an hour, or about 16 million a year.

Twenty-seven intake fans and 26 exhaust fans ventilate the tunnel, supplying more than four million cubic feet of fresh air every minute. The ventilation job required the construction of four buildings and one three-fourths acre island.

President Roosevelt broke the ground for the tunnel in 1940 but actual construction did not begin until the following year. In 1942, because of the war, work had to be postponed and was not resumed until 1945.

Eight Men Killed

Work began from each end, Manhattan and Brooklyn, and when the two shafts met they were no more than a "dime's width" off line, engineers report.

The progress of the sand hogs varies with whatever they were digging, engineers report. The average in rock was 11 feet a day, in soft ground, seven and one-half feet and in mixed rock and earth, about three feet.

New York City now has four tunnels and 58 bridges between its five boroughs and connecting it to the rest of the United States. Their total construction represents an investment of $622 million.

The eight sand hogs who died during the construction were killed by falling rock and other accidents which are more or less routine in tunnel work, engineers said.

Korean Runners Win Top Honors in Boston Marathon

BOSTON — Three remarkable Korean runners won top honors in the 54th annual Boston Athletic association marathon as an estimated 500,000 people turned out to watch the colorful Patriots' day spectacle.

A 19-year-old high school student, Ham Kee Yong, was winner of the 26-mile 385-yard run. He made the distance in 2 hours 32 minutes and 39 seconds.

Second and third place were taken by fellow Koreans, Song Kil Yoon and Choi You Chil. It was the fifth straight year that foreign runners have won the event, but never before has a visiting delegation so dominated the picture.

But for a stretch of hills the young Korean might have set a course record now held by a fellow countryman at 2:25:39. Although he slowed considerably near the finish, his nearest competitor was half a mile behind.

New Law Abiding Valves Guard Pasteurizing Process

MINNEAPOLIS—Every possible precaution is being taken today by America's dairy industry to protect the health-giving properties of milk.

A new valve which will automatically shut off all pasteurizing machinery if anything about its installation and operation is not in accord with public health codes has been perfected by engineers of the Brown industrial division of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company.

"Through a simple but ingenious system of internal contacts and electric switches the valve is able to detect any mistakes in the assembly," Jack Meyer, dairy industrial engineer explained. Winterlocked to other pasteurizing equipment, the valve will shut down the process or regulate other operating equipment in even a faulty assembly. It is another step toward greater protection of the public."

London Girl Is Lonely White Queen Of African Tribe

SEROWE, AFRICA—A pretty former London stenographer, now the white queen of the black Bamangwato, is probably the loneliest woman in Africa although she is surrounded by hundreds of her subjects and many white people.

She is also aware that her marriage to the Bamangwato chief has brought to the fore the touchy question of Britain's relations with the non-white races of the empire.

She is isolated because the British have forced her husband to return to London and he cannot return to his tribe for five years. Her isolation is increased because the white colony of Serowe will have nothing to do with her.

The whites look down on mixed marriage. At the town's few social occasions they studiously ignore her. She gets no invitations from them and she has no white callers.

One young white couple who were her friends and sometimes called on her, have been transferred. There was little doubt that the move was officially inspired.

Her palace is a simply furnished brick and mortar home on the outskirts of the mud hut capital. The house is surrounded by a high wall of thorn trees.

She has a Bamangwato cook, but does most of the shopping herself. She uses a 1949 automobile for such trips.

The house has no electricity, although wired, and no sewage system. A battery-powered radio is almost her only line with the outside world.

Although she is isolated and has no friends, she is determined to stick it out until her husband can return. He made one short visit about five months ago and will make another when their child is born.

Emperor of Japan Studying Christianity

CARDIFF, WALES—Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, a Japanese evangelist, told the British council of churches that the Japanese emperor is being instructed in Christianity.

The evangelist said the empress is receiving the instructions and that she, in turn is teaching the emperor, once regarded by all Japanese as semidivine.

He said there were fewer Japanese Christians now than before the war, but that a Christian revival was underway. He added that in every place there is a struggle going on between communism and Christianity.

Navy Uses Fort Knox Gold For Cosmic-Ray Research

WASHINGTON — The office of naval research announced recently $200,000 in gold had been borrowed from the Fort Knox vaults for use in new cosmic-ray research.

Four hundred pounds of gold were used as a new material for intercepting the invisible rays and causing them to produce "showers" which then can be photographed with the help of special apparatus. Previously, lead had been used for the material.

O. N. R. officials said all but $225 worth of the metal was returned to Fort Knox.

Gold bricks were machined into special plates and highly polished, a navy research man said. "The cosmic rays actually effected no major change in the gold itself," he added.

After the four-month job was finished the gold was assayed to determine any change in purity. The navy reported no change.

Winston Churchill Paintings To Adorn U.S. Yule Cards

KANSAS CITY—Winston Churchill's paintings will appear on American Christmas cards this year, the first time the British wartime premier has permitted reproduction of his work for such a purpose.

The Hallmark greeting card company negotiated a three-year contract with Mr. Churchill, a famed amateur painter, for use of 18 of his canvases which are now on their way to the United States. The paintings remain the property of Mr. Churchill, however.

His work has never been exhibited in this country, according to Joyce C. Hall, head of the greeting card firm, and he has never sold a painting. One was donated last year to the British YWCA and was auctioned for charity. Others have been given to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Henry Luce and Bernard Baruch.

A representative of the firm selected the 18 paintings in London from nearly 200 which Mr. Churchill has painted in the last 25 years.

The wet power lines sagged against the wet tree branches used by the birds as a roost. Witnesses said that one second the birds were chirping merrily, and the next instant all were quiet except for the soft thump of the falling bodies from the tree.

Men Use Barn And Good Idea To Escape City

QUAKERTOWN — Take a few simple machines from a home workshop, mix well with imagination and at least one sound idea, put together in a cow barn and allow to ferment for two years. The result will be definite proof that opportunity knocks as insistently in the smallest towns as the largest cities.

At least, two men who turned their backs on big cities found that was so in Quakertown. George L. Setman was a Philadelphia sales executive who decided the small town offered the pleasantest living. Harold R. Johnson, a teacher of aeronautics and an aircraft technician, was bored with New York's gaudy attractions. They met by chance in Quakertown because of a common interest in aviation.

Setman had a large cowbarn on his farm which also served as the Quakertown airport. Johnson had some machinery in a guest house on his country place and was eager to put it to profitable use.

The idea was about as simple and obvious as the rest of their equipment. It was just this: business and industry spend millions of dollars needlessly hauling dead weight because they make cabinets, boxes, hand truck skids, pallets, and all sorts of handling equipment out of wood and other heavy materials. Why not make this material of sturdy aircraft aluminum? With labor costs what they are, wouldn't it be worthwhile to save the wages of one man when one man with an aluminum container could carry as much as two with heavier equipment?

Saves $120,000 a Year

At the beginning, in October, 1947, cows were undisturbed as the machinery was set up in the mule stables. One man did the work, assisted by airplane pilots on days when weather halted flying.

Then a television manufacturer adopted a handling idea suggested by Johnson and Setman—saving $120,000 a year. Soon 10 of the 11 television manufacturers had ordered equipment. The cows were sold, the barn remodeled, more men put to work.

A pie baker complained that the plywood pallets on which he hauled pies sagged and ruined pies. It took two men to scrape them clean of fruit juices. They didn't last long when steam cleaned.

That problem was made to order for the Bucks County Enterprises, as Setman and Johnson were now calling their company. Aircraft aluminum pallets didn't sag, they gave the pie bakery a clean and cheery appearance, the pallets could be cleaned easily with steam with no hand scraping. Of course, the original cost was higher but the long run savings were substantial.

35 Men Working

More and more companies learned of the imaginative ideas these men had for saving them money and trouble. Orders flowed in. Workmen remodeling the barn were barely able to keep one step ahead of the mushrooming production department. By early 1950 35 men were on the payroll and workmen were still frantically sawing and hammering away to provide ever more room for more workers.

Setman and Johnson use airplanes to solve one problem the small town manufacturer sometimes has—that is, how to give prompt attention to his customers in larger cities. Both make all sales and service calls and fill rush orders by plane. On one recent day, Johnson kept an 8:30 a.m. appointment in Lancaster, Pa., flew to Washington for an 11 a.m. call and was in New York at 3 p.m. to service another customer.

"Aluminum, and especially the aluminum alloys, are relatively new in the world of metals," Johnson explains. "Few businessmen realize the money saving potential offered by a strong, lightweight metal. Our interest in aviation had impressed us with the possibilities of aluminum in other fields and we just adapted this big general idea to specific needs. We're in the business of selling ideas as 96 per cent of the products we sell we design ourselves. The market is never glutted with sound ideas and it's as easy to sell them from a small town as the largest city. And lots more fun."

Radio Commentator Wins Sitdown Strike on Plane

ZANESVILLE, OHIO—The radio commentator, H. V. Kaltenborn, recently won a strike—a sitdown strike—against an air line.

TWO officials said a man who identified himself as H. V. Kaltenborn boarded the plane in New York without reservation and promised to get off in case sufficient passengers with reservations at other stops filled the ship to capacity.

At Zanesville it happened, but Kaltenborn refused to leave saying he had to be in Columbus, Ohio, by 7:30 p. m. It was then about 5:30 p. m.

Finally the pilot and the station master promised to pay his taxicab fare to Columbus, about 60 miles away. The man would not leave, however, until a cab driver came aboard and promised to get him to Columbus by 7:30.

With that promise he departed.

Outlook bright for labor peace during the summer.

Taft-Hartley Law Ends Strike of Communists

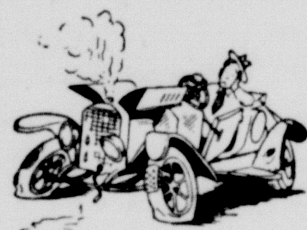

The debt owed by farmers to the Taft-Hartley labor law is clearly shown in a report issued by the major producers of potash on the recent 73-day strike at their Carlsbad, N. M., properties.

Secretary of Labor Brannan was not speaking idly when he warned the House Agriculture Committee that the strike bid fair to deprive farmers of fertilizers vitally needed for spring plantings and that production had to be resumed immediately if a serious crisis was to be averted. It was the Taft-Hartley law, vilified and hated by officials of major labor unions, that enabled potash production to be resumed.

tive strike, has been expelled from the CIO for allowing Communists to dominate its activities. The union sought to prevent employees in two non-striking unions from going to work in fulfillment of their contracts. It engaged in mass picketing and prevented freedom of passage to and from the plants. Its threats and intimidations were directed against those of its own members who became aware that they were being exploited and sought to return to work.

Finally, the injunctive processes of the Taft-Hartley Act brought an end to the turmoil created by the Communist-dominated union. They were applied after the fullest investigation by the National Labor Relations Board and hearings in the courts, and because of their use members of non-striking unions were able to earn wages that otherwise would have been denied them.

Let those who say that the Taft-Hartley Act is not needed study this bitter, destructive proof. They will see factual evidence to the contrary, and will find overwhelming proof that the public interest can be preserved by judicial process.

Daughter of Czar Reported Living In New Jersey

NEWARK — The old story that one of the daughters of Czar Nicholas II of Russia escaped to this country came to light recently in New Jersey.

The attorneys of Mrs. Marie Louise Betelle of Millburn describe their client as the escaped princess.

The story came to light when the attorneys filed a suit for Mrs. Betelle asking an accounting from her husband for thousands of dollars' worth of jewels, among them a diamond pendant once worn by the late czar.

Mrs. Betelle will neither confirm nor deny the statements in her suit that she is the late czar's daughter, Princess Anastasia, but her home lends credence to that belief.

For instance, it contains many old Russian icons, oil paintings and exquisite pieces of silver and glass. The paintings, which Mrs. Betelle says were given her by members "of my family," bear the seal of the house of Romanoff. So do magnificent silver serving pieces.

Some quarters report that claims that Mrs. Betelle is heir to the Russian throne are not altogether fantastic. In the 1930's a woman came to this country from Europe and was described by other escaped Russian nobles as Nicholas' daughter. She traveled in seclusion on the Berengaria and was smuggled ashore through a freight elevator, swathed in veils, to escape reporters who had caught the rumor of her origin.

Mrs. Betelle is supposed to have met her husband in Europe where he had become a friend of Prince Henry Ernest August, a cousin of Czar Nicholas.

Although Mrs. Betelle will not talk now, she said: "Some day I will tell the world about my life, but not yet."

Barkley From Kentucky, Declines Glass of Water

OKLAHOMA CITY — Vice President Alben W. Barkley, that gentleman from Kentucky with a flare for words and a record for moving about that no other vice president has ever achieved, gave forth with a new punch line at a dinner here.

Halfway through a speech before important party leaders, a local politician handed Barkley a glass of water.

Barkley turned with a smile and said: "Thank you very much, my friend, but I'm from Kentucky."

He returned the glass still full.

Restaurant Choice Row Stalls 70 Rail Trains

ATLANTA, GA. — An argument over where freight yard workers would eat their meals stalled 70 trains and made 500 to 600 workers idle. The surprise walkout was at the Inman yards of the Southern railway system, largest freight yards south of Washington.

General Manager D. William Brosnan of the railway said the trouble started when the railway made extensive changes at the yards, and had to move the place where free, hot meals were served trainmen.

Union officials protested the change. The company offered to deliver the meals to any point in the yards, Brosnan said, but the union refused.

Three days later, Brosnan said, a crew foreman took his switch engine to drive his crew a mile away to a restaurant. Brosnan said the foreman was relieved from duty, and the walkout followed.

Machine-Gun Scare Just U.S. Plane Easing Load

RUFFRE, ITALY — Citizens of Ruffre were thrown into momentary panic when they thought they were being machine-gunned.

A United States Air Force spokesman soon cleared up the mystery and the Italian settled down to every-day living again.

The spokesman said an American plane with engine trouble shot its ammunition "into the clear" to lighten its load and it was the empty cartridges, not live bullets, that rattled on Ruffre's tile roofs and sent the people scattering. Some Italians thought there had been an aerial dogfight.

The pilot of the F-47 said the plane developed engine trouble and he was forced to drop the external fuel tanks and fire the ammunition.

The plane made a safe landing.

Prisoner Learns How It Feels to Ride in Trunk

SALINA — Jimmie Cagle, 21, knows how it feels now to be stuffed into a car trunk.

Cagle was arrested on a charge of armed robbery after he tied up a motorist and put him in a car trunk.

Sheriff Fred Bell, who returned Cagle to Salina, put the prisoner in the trunk of his automobile and drove 35 miles to lodge him in the county jail.

"Well, now you get some idea of how it feels to put someone else in there," the sheriff said to Cagle.

Cagle admitted he didn't like it. "Darned uncomfortable and cold," he said.

Oil Secured For Cars As Needs Appeared in Past

A top officer of an oil company has vividly illustrated the fallacy of government direction of enterprise in these words: "Let me speculate—as to what might have been the attitude of a Government Planning Board in 1900, if one had existed at that time, toward the automobile and petroleum industries. There were then in operation in this country some 8,000 motorcars, consuming 80,000 gallons of gasoline in a year. That is just about enough gasoline to keep all the cars of today in operation for two and one-half minutes. Let us imagine Mr. Ford, with his great vision of the automobile's future, appearing before that Board and asking that in its program for the next two or three decades it provide a few billions of capital, along with the necessary labor and material, for manufacturing automobiles. The Board would have recognized in Mr. Ford a mild lunatic. They would have asked him where he expected to get the gasoline for all those cars; and would have pointed out that neither the gasoline nor the crude oil from which to make it was anywhere in sight. And they would have rejected Mr. Ford's demands."

However, the speaker went on, there was no such Board in 1900. Mr. Ford went on building cars as fast as possible and so did other makers. And the gasoline which wasn't in sight appeared as needed. The oil industry didn't have to beg permission of a government Planning Board to take a chance—and so it found new fields and vastly improved its technology. We see the results today in this nation-on-wheels.

Prevent Fire and Save Life To Be Slogan

A new poster for Fire Prevention Week—which will be observed nationally next October—has been chosen by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. It shows a mother playfully lifting her young child above her head and is captioned: "For their sake—Prevent Fire, Save Lives."

There, in a few words, is a vital message. Fire kills some 11,000 human beings every year in this country and at least three-quarters of those deaths occur in homes. Among children, fire continues to lead the causes of accidental deaths at home. On top of that, fire is responsible for horrible burnings and maimings. In many cases children are crippled for life.

Fire Prevention Week comes only once each year. But the spirit that motivates the week should remain in force every day and every night. There is no end to the job of fire prevention—unless we are constantly on guard, new dangers will appear.

Safety in the home demands year around vigilance. Rundown heating systems, worn and defective wiring, improperly stored paints and varnishes and cleaning solvents, liters of trash in basements, closets and attics, carelessness with smoking materials and matches—these are all prime causes of home fires, and the house that is relative safe today may be a menace tomorrow.

Remember that simple motto—"Prevent Fires, Save Lives." And act on it.

Newton and Ed Harrell Shot Bears While on Their Trip to Alaska

Looking through binoculars, the hunters saw four bears at one time about a mile apart. Big bears will not stay within a mile of each other. It takes much hard walking to find them; the men had already been walking for five hours. McCarty and Tillie went after one while Newton and Ed went with Slim after the other. The latter's bear dug a hole in the snow and lay down. After a two-hour climb, Newton shot him at about 350 yards. The bear came charging out at them as there was no other way out. This gave Ed some good shots. While the bear lay snarling and growling and couldn't get up, he would bite his foot, and you could hear the bones being crushed. Four or five shots were required to kill him.

The skin of this bear measured nine and a half feet long and ten and a half feet wide. He was old and heavy and weighed around 1,000 pounds. His skull was over 18 inches. He was one of the big bears of Alaska.

A she bear with three cubs was in the same canyon. When the first shot was fired at the other bear, she wheeled around, putting her cubs under her; with feet spread apart; she stood ready to challenge anybody or anything. She kept counting her cubs; occasionally she would miss one and wheel around to find him. She watched for a while then slowly worked her way up in the snow.

Bill McCarty had a peculiar experience with his bear. There were two bears on a narrow ledge. Ed and Newton took the one on the left. Ed could see only the top of the bear's back above the ridge and hit low striking a rock on the ridge. This startled the bears and they ran off down the mountains. Mc shot four times at his bear as he ran down the right-hand draw. The men saw him go out of sight. In a few minutes they saw a bear running out of the mouth of the canyon and thought that Mc had missed his bear.

As they sat down to eat their lunch and were talking about the bear getting away, Mc said he knew he hit the bear in one leg and thought he broke it. Slim said that when that bear left the canyon he was using all of his legs. They investigated and found that Mc had killed his bear. There had been another bear in the canyon. Slim said that they were running relays, one taking up where the other left off; he also said that Mc was a very good shot. Mc also killed a small bear.

The last night out the hunters had a narrow escape. As they were walking along the trail to camp about midnight after skinning the bear they killed that day, Ed heard a noise and saw a bear charging down the mountain like a freight train headed straight for them. The men carried shells in the magazine, but in the excitement Newton didn't pull back hard enough and failed to get a shell in the barrel, so his gun clicked. When he was 50 feet away, Slim shot and the bear reared up looking surprised. I guess he thought they were moose or something. The bear looked like he might eat one or two of them before he noticed the difference. Slim shot three times and the bear left. It was not very dark, but they couldn't see the sights on the gun. They could tell the color of the bear and could even hear him breathe. Slim said he thought surely some one would get hurt that time.

Newton's bear, killed at the first of the hunt, measured the largest of the four killed by our hunters. He was nine and a half feet long with an eleven foot spread in front. His hide weighed about 100 pounds. He had one ear chewed off. Tillie (our guide of last year also) said he would surely like to see the bear that chewed the ear off Newton's bear.

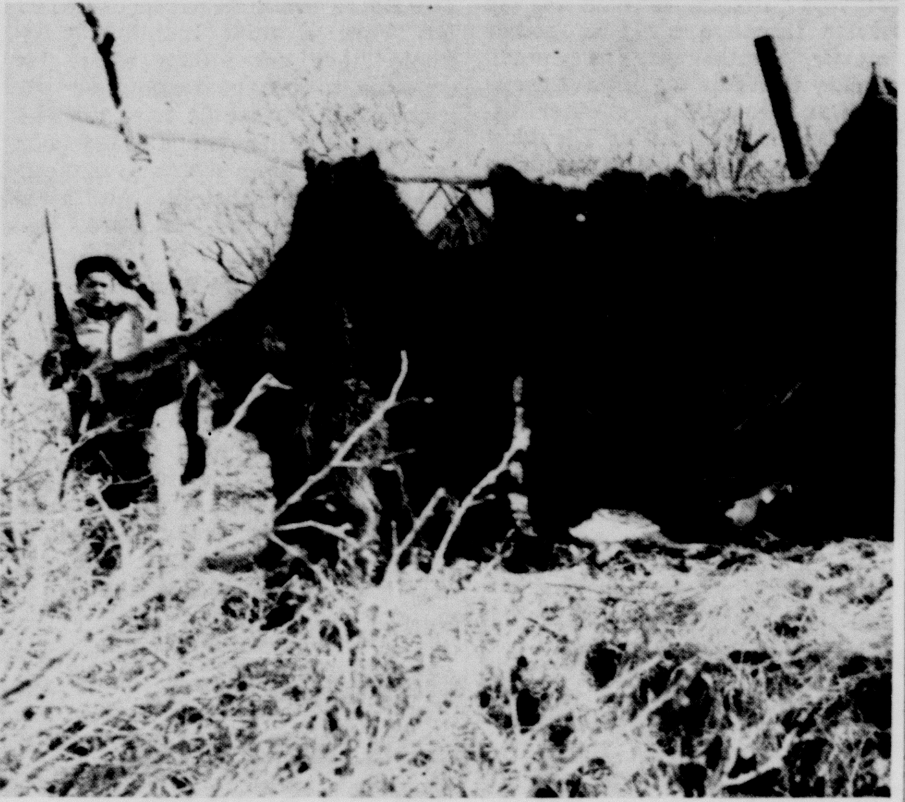

The last day out they saw 12 bears.

The Kodiak bears weigh around 1000 pounds. Their trail is a series of holes the size of a man's hat a little too far apart for a man to step. Each bear steps in the same track. These trails could be seen three miles away.

Bristol Bay, they say, is where the weather is made. The wind blows cold, then hot, turning to fog and rain. The weather changes every hour. During the hunt the weather was cold enough for long underwear and warm coats. A stove was used in their tents for cooking and warmth. They walked in deep snow quite a bit of the time. The walking was hard unless someone had broken the trail before you.

It is not a country of trees, only low willows and alders upon which

They Got Their Bears in Alaska

Newton Harrell and his son, Ed, killed two bear on their trip to Alaska. The upper panel shows the bear tracks in the snow, indicating the size of his footprints as compared with that of a man.

The second picture shows Ed Harrell standing by the two bear hides. The heads and hides were shipped back by air express, arriving at the same time the Harrells arrived home.

moose browse. The brush is terribly deformed by the snow mashing it against the ground, forming a matted turf which makes very hard walking.

Slim Moore, Warren Tillman, and Al Lysher, the Alaskan guides with the party, were 44, 48, and 52 years of age respectively. It was hard to keep up with the guides who were carrying heavy packs with food, knives, wet rocks, coats, and a hundred-pound bear hide.

The trails along the lake used by moose and other animals were well beaten down like any other trail. These brownies, the big bear, leave a print of their claws in their tracks while black bear do not. Black bear are much smaller.

Big bears sleep later than black bears. Slim said he had looked in on them during hibernation. They don't sleep very soundly; he could hear them clawing and growling. Their fat becomes porous toward spring near the end of hibernation. It takes five or six shots from a powerful gun to kill a big brownie. Slim says that a bear scratches his ears with his hind feet when he really gets in a hurry and looks like a wheel turning over and over while he is running.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION
The Federal Reserve Board reports that industrial production in May climbed to within one percent of the peacetime record set at the height of the 1948 boom. It figures that June output should go even higher, if present trends are sustained, probably equalling the postwar peak of October and November, 1948.

Dependents Are Increasing In All Parts Nation

The problem of providing for the elderly part of our population has become a very difficult and serious one. It will become much more serious as time wears on. For, due to the progress of medical science and other reasons, the percentage of those past 65 is rising with great rapidity.

Even now, Herbert Hoover said in a recent address, "We have less than 70,000,000 providers in this group (persons aged 20 to 65) and they must provide for 80,000,000 children, aged, sick, nonproductive government workers and their wives. It is solely from the energies of this middle group, their inventions, and their productivity that can come the support of the young, the old and the sick--and the government workers."

How to deal with the case of the elderly has been commanding the intense attention of industry and the labor unions. The unions have concentrated on an effort to gain retirement pensions for their members of $100 or more a month, social security payments included. They have signed a number of highly favorable contracts, notably with U. S. Steel, Chrysler, and General Motors. According to Walter Reuther they hope, in 10 years, to make $200 a month the standard pension. However, whether or not this occurs, few believe that such pension plans are anything like a complete solution. For one thing, the majority of workers are not unionized, and it is hardly likely that they would be willing to do without adequate pensions while a relatively small group reaped the harvest. For another, no one has yet figured out a way by which the thousands of smaller businesses of the country could guarantee an acceptable plan. For still another, even when large companies are involved, there are great complications and imponderables--the state of business in the future; how many employees will die or resign or otherwise become ineligible before reaching retirement age; how long the average pensioner will live; what the investment yield will be on funds set aside for pension purposes; what rules to establish to determine the benefits various classifications of workers are entitled to, and so on.

Nor can we yet be sure how much a pension plan will add to the cost of a company's product. On the debit side, it may increase the labor cost of each employee by 10 cents or more an hour. On the credit side, however, as the treasurer of Eastman Kodak has pointed out, "There are definite savings. The organization is kept on a more efficient basis--A sense of security is brought to the older worker and there is a good effect on the younger worker as well. There is a better feeling among the employees and in the community--Labor turnover will be lower."

So much for the pros and cons. Basically, the problem is to find a way to assure the old a comfortable retirement without depressing the economy, forcing commodity prices to ever-higher levels, and making the burden of taxation insuperable.
